Topics of Discussion

- As we enter 2020, will U.S. health care spending trends remain stable or are they poised for acceleration?
- When looking at the most recent data, what are the key emerging changes that Altarum has observed in U.S. health spending?
- What does Altarum see as the key drivers of health spending for 2020 from a macro and micro perspective. Which components of medical costs are showing signs of acceleration and which categories seem to be moderating for 2020?
